

Sandstone News August 2012

Update on the Sandstone Narrow Gauge network.

The team from Flint Construction will be back for 4-months laying additional lines and repairing sections that are not entirely up to specification. They started work laying storage lines into the new section of the 2-ft Narrow Gauge storage building which is now very substantial. We will in fact have far more accommodation than we have items to put under cover but no doubt the inventory will change over time.

Our ability to continue with our track laying programme is entirely due to the close cooperation we receive from Transnet with regard to the purchase of surplus Narrow Gauge turnouts from the Port Shepstone yard that is currently being dismantled.
